CONSTRUCTION BEGINS AT BUNBURY PRIMARY SCHOOL

Leading WA construction company Pindan has now begun $6 million worth of construction and refurbishments at Bunbury Primary School.

Site manager Gavin Bell said the project was one of the biggest school construction initiatives in the South West.

“The work we’re doing at Bunbury Primary School will see the whole school get a make-over – from refurbishing all classrooms and administrations blocks to the construction of a new early childhood facility, new library and an undercover area with art facilities,” he said.

“We’re also doing upgrades to the staff car park as well as installing a new sports court.

“It’s a privilege for Pindan to be able to help rebuild such an important education hub in the region and we’re looking forward to delivering a quality result which will provide for students now and well into the future.”

The Bunbury Primary School project has received partial funding from the Federal Government’s Building the Education Revolution program as well as State Government capital works.
