Belmont company wins top awards

A BELMONT-BASED business has taken out a number of prestigious awards at the 2009 Property Council of Australia WA Innovation and Excellence Awards.

Pindan, one of WA's leading property and construction companies, was recognised for its $34 million luxury residential development Cygne Crawley Edge.

The development took out the WA Property Marketing Award for High Density Residential Developments as well as being named the night's overall winner.

Property Council WA executive director Joe Lenzo said Cygne Crawley Edge apartments achieved an excellent acceptance and appreciation of its quality by the market.

"Judges commented on the stylish design, high quality fixtures and finishings, building amenity and the site utilisation," he said.

"The project is a worthy inaugural winner of our Innovation and Excellence Awards and has set a benchmark for future years."

The award-winning project has 14 penthouse-style waterfront apartments and is on Mounts Bay Road in Nedlands.
